

Here is Scott's response to this statement: "If you condemn Bush you have also condemned Jesus."
Matthew 25:40

Wes,

What does it take to get the message across to you? You say if people condemn Bush they condemn Jesus? That is simply stupid.

BUSH:

1. Bush is the worst president in this country's history.
2. Bush was an embarrassment to this great country I call home.
3. Bush contributed to mass death and hatred on this planet.

JESUS:

1. Jesus is the LIGHT of the universe.
2. Jesus teaches to LOVE your enemy.
3. Jesus is the perfect example of COMPASSION.

Jesus LOVES the people BUSH HATED. Jesus gave LIFE to the people Bush had killed. Jesus still loves Bush, even though Bush doesn't deserve it.

Get a grip on reality Wes. It's pathetic how you compare Bush to Jesus. Stop worshipping Bush...

Scott

Dear Scott:

I am happy that you wished me peace, and so do I wish you peace. The mind of a man is a very complicated thing. We all think differently. The Bible is a guidebook to help us to keep our thinking in line with reality. It is to help Christians be like-minded and focused on spiritual things. That is found in Philippians 2:2 as well as several other places. I am currently over half way thorough the Bible for the fifteenth time. I read it in the short span of forty days.

George Bush is a brother in Christ. We are not to judge whether one person is a better Christian than another. Apostle Paul said that he was the chiefest of sinners; but I would not hold myself above him. I am far worse than any man. Many good things are said concerning George Bush's walk with God, his Bible reading, and his prayer life. And I have a letter from him thanking me for praying for him and for our country. I believe what I see in a person regardless of what can be heard on TV or in any other news source (in other words what the world says). We are not "of the world." The world also says there is no God.

As for my comment about condemning Jesus, Matthew 25:40 says, "Inasmuch as you have done it to one of the least of these my brethren, you have also done it unto me." You have called Jesus simply stupid, and you have spoken ill of Him with every criticism of George Bush and of me. Sorry to be the bearer of bad news. With your unfounded criticisms of me when you don't even know me, how am I to believe that you are an authority on George Bush, or a wise man who can discern the times?

If you are patriotic and call this great country home, then you will also honor those whose lives were taken on September 11th, and you will honor our past president for all the good that he did for us. How should we judge a man, for the good that he did, or for the wrong that (we think) he did? How do you want others to judge you? Thankfully, God will judge us by the good that Jesus did.

If George Bush had unlawfully contributed to mass death, he would not be a free man at this time. What he does in the event of war is for the safety of our country and our people. And the most prominent complaints about our past president are about money. Is that to be our focus?

You are correct in saying, "Jesus is light, Jesus teaches love, Jesus exemplifies compassion. And if He said, "Love your enemy" and you follow His teachings, how then can you be so hateful of George Bush? How then can you be so hateful of me? Incidentally, I've done something in my past for which the world condemns me without any understanding of the whys and wherefores connected with it, or without knowing who and what I am. I can identify with George Bush.

Jesus still loves you, me, George Bush, and everyone, even though we don't deserve it. And when we forgive each other for perceived wrongs, we can experience the freedom that comes from being forgiven, and living in a mode of forgiveness. Our only purpose is to give and receive love and forgiveness. In doing so we share God's love with all those around us. And we glorify Him.

Jesus also admonishes us to look at the "signs of the times" in determining how close we are to the end. Second Thessalonians chapter two refers to two things that have taken place recently concerning the going out of one world leader and the coming in of the next. We are rapidly approaching the end. Are you ready?

We will not be able to change anything that is happening in the world events now; but we must be ready, we must cling to God, we must walk in intimacy with Him. "To go to Heaven" is not my specific goal; but for the will of God to be done in and through my life is my focus.

There are many more things to say about the "signs of the times" that are taking place right now and have been for many years; but you are not yet ready to listen to them. Which mind-set is the more pathetic?

Wes,

Don't be flattered by my auto-signature. It appears on every email I send. Clearly you are not a man of peace; clearly, you are disturbed. As long as you continue to worship Bush and a political agenda rather than worship your creator...you will continue to be a very disturbed individual.

As far as you supporting Bush as he ordered mass murder, and you support this because it was legal...I suggest you spend some time considering whose law you support. The law of God which condemns murder, or the law of man which endorses murder when ordered by a person like Bush.

Seemingly, you think that Bush is a "Christian" simply because he says he is....regardless of the fruit he produces. Perhaps you'd say the same about Bin Laden, if he simply said "Hey I'm a Christian...pray for the success of my mission...."

I thank GOD that Obama is now our President, and he can now start cleaning up after the EVIL Bush regime. Thankfully, Bush is currently now going down in history as the disgusting and evil "leader" he was...and he is only supported by twisted individuals such as yourself.

Prayerfully, you'll someday stop kneeling before the throne of Bush and start kneeling before the throne of the LORD.

Now...go away. Leave me alone. Leave my wife alone. Leave my family alone.

Scott
